Are trilling, and decay,
And those who prize the paltry things,
More trilling still than they.

CORONERS INQUEST

Gives Opinion On the Shooting of Jerry Lewis—Undecided Whether Officer Bloomhuff or Dead Negro's Pal, Grant Howard, Caused Fatal Wound.

The coroners' inquest over the death of Jerry Lewis, colored, who was shot a few days ago by Officer Dudley Bloomhuff, in a lively shooting scrape near the coal docks east of this city, was held in the Council Chamber Wednesday morning. Coroner Charles Slack presiding. The following composed the jury—Messrs. A. Clooney, Foreman, Charles Rhoemiller, James Walton, John Willis, Fred Thomas and Andrew J. Boyd. County Attorney W. H. Rees cross examined the witnesses. Chief of Police Mackey was the first witness and told of the message he received from Covington, asking the police in this city to search all freight trains for two negro men. Special Agent Thomas Stewart of the C. & O., was next on the stand and gave his version of the shooting. Officer Bloomhuff followed Stewart and told how he asked the dead negro to stop and who paid no attention but shot at him. After Mr. Bloomhuff, Dr. S. R. Harover took the stand and told the jury that the wound in the abdomen was the mortal wound and said that the negro had but little chance to survive after being shot in that spot. He also declared that all the wounds were from the front and that the path of the bullet was straight. Grant Howard, the dead negro's pal, followed Dr. Harover and told the story that he did not shoot at the officer. He also said that the dead man had threatened him if he did not do as he did and as the Lewis negro was running toward him when he fired, and as he says that he did not fire at the officer, the police think that he might have fired at Lewis thinking he was trying to get him for not opening fire at the officer sooner. Howard will be cross-examined thoroughly before the examining trial of Bloomhuff and something may turn up to show that he shot the dead man. After Howard, Charles Boone, white, was given the chair. Boone said that he peeped under the car and saw Lewis with a gun in his hand just before the shooting fray. At this time Carl Ward, an epileptic, was given a cross-examination by Attorney Rees. Ward told a very loose story, saying that Bloomhuff started the Lewis man before he started to run. This is thought by the police to be a bit of imagination as the gun Lewis had is over a foot long and as he had it strapped to his belt it was impossible for any one to overlook it. Ward's story was not given much credit. Willis Barber, colored, was given a hearing but told nothing of importance. Boone Webster, colored, was placed on the stand and testified that Bloomhuff fired first but as Boone is noted for his imagination his story was not considered by the jury. Webster gave the jury a hearty laugh by asking Coroner Slack to stink him to car fare to the brick yard where he worked. The coroner complied with his request and Boone left with the room in laughter.

After Webster, Robert Bertha, colored, was placed on the stand. Bertha told a straight forward story of the affair and kept his imagination in check. The coroner's jury then retired and handed in the following verdict:

Maysville, Ky., July 21, 1915.
We, the jury impaneled to inquire into the death of Jerry Lewis, find that he came to his death, the result of a gunshot wound in the abdomen occurred near the coal docks in Mason county, July 19.

From the conflict of testimony it is not clear to the jury that the bullet was fired from the gun of the arresting officer, Dudley Bloomhuff, or from the gun of the colored man companion, Nat Howard.

A. CLOONEY, Foreman.
W. F. THOMAS,
CHAS. RHOEMILLER,
A. J. BOYD,
JOHN WILLIS,
JAS. WALTON.

The jury had every reason to believe that Howard might have shot Lewis, for when the first shots were fired and during the entire affair Officer Bloomhuff was standing on an angle from the dead negro while Howard when he fired, his gun was on a straight line with Lewis, and as the path of the bullet is very straight it would seem that there is a doubt as to whether Bloomhuff or the Howard negro shot the dead man, with the odds against Howard. Chief Mackey, after the inquest, remarked that Lewis was well prepared as the gun taken from him was the best he had ever seen and that no doubt Lewis had committed some crime and was ready to resist arrest.

DR. C. M. BEACH DEAD

Dr. Beach is survived by his wife and five children, three sons and two daughters, who were with him at the end. The funeral was held from his late residence with interment in the cemetery at Lebanon, Ohio.

Mrs. John O'Keefe and son, Clarence, left Wednesday for a visit with relatives in Louisville.

BOOSTERS' DAY

Was Big Success—Nine Hundred and Forty Witnessed the Game

Boosters' Day at the League Park was a big success when nine hundred and forty persons showed the true spirit and went to the game.

The game opened up with splendid base ball and the exhibition continued high class through the first few innings when it began to get ragged but no reasonable minded fan will hold a little looseness on one day against a team that put up the article of ball which Maysville played on the opening day. At that the game was not bad, just a little off perfect and now that the boys are again settled after days of doubt as to what was to become of them, their hearts are back in the game and they will settle down to the kind of base ball that is worthy of the name. It must be remembered however that they can not do anything without public support and although the special boosters day is over the fans must remember that they must do their part else they can not have good base ball. Make every day boosters day and your team will hand you the best base ball. Following is the game:

A DRESS CARNIVAL

The unusually cool spring and early summer retarded the sale of lingerie dresses, so we find our stock larger than it has ever been in mid-summer. The consequence is re-pricing at figures that are of great importance to you in point of economy. We also present a stock so generous in size, choosing from it will be a pleasure. It is a case of getting what you want instead of taking what you can get. Valued in all white and in many pretty colors. A few white ones. Every dress is absolutely in fashion and has been carefully kept in dust proof cases so it shows no trace of handling but is as fresh as the day it was unpacked. As a matter of fact these pretty dresses "measure up" to their advertising. They are even better than we say they are, because we have to curb our enthusiasm, lest we seem to exaggerate.

ACT PROMPTLY FOR THESE ARE QUICK SELLING VALUES

As prices are so varied and there are scarcely two dresses alike we can only make the general statement that reductions are as follows:

OUR NOTES TO GERMANY AND ENGLAND

Washington's note to England and the Frye note to Germany, it is obvious, are in no wise to alter our neutral relationship to the war.

The demand on Germany, for compensation for the loss of the William P. Frye, already has brought, if not exactly the answer expected, at least the assurance that the sunken ship will be paid for; and there is no chance for a quarrel with a creditor who is willing to meet your bill in full.

Germany would be in a more consistent position in connection with her submarine activities against shipping using the waters of the British Isles if she had frankly repudiated the action of the captain of the Eitel and agreed to the American contention that the sinking of the Frye was unjustifiable. The submarine order, it will be recalled, resulted from the refusal of England to permit neutral ships to bear foodstuffs to her ports; and the case of the Frye was that of a neutral ship carrying similar cargo to a British port.

But it is Germany's look-out, not ours, if she elects to change her position, to the detriment of her own case, so long as the net result is the same.

As to the other note, the answer to the British order-in-council, neither its text nor the reception it has received at the hands of the British government is freighted with danger. The Administration had no alternative but to file its protest—its dissent from the right of a belligerent, except through an actual blockade or specific declarations of contraband, to interfere with commerce of neutrals. But the Washington government can hardly have had any expectation that the protest would cause the Allies to recede from their main purpose of cutting off Germany's supplies from abroad.

In this connection it may not be out of place to refer to the admirable position of American public sentiment as reflected in its leading newspapers. Nowhere is there evidence of a disposition to add to the difficulties of the Administration in the handling of the many delicate and complicated questions which have arisen during the war. On all sides is to be found a spirit of patriotic concurrence in its efforts to uphold American dignity and preserve American rights; and as long as this spirit lasts no one need fear American involvement in the quarrel without just cause.

Meantime Germany reproaches us for our refusal to prohibit the sale of munitions to her enemies. England some times grows querulous because we insist on asserting principles which always have been part of the warp and woof of our foreign policy. But the chances are that when the war is over and the fighting nations again look through normal spectacles, they will acknowledge that never has a great nation more scrupulously striven to maintain officially an attitude of correct neutrality.

It seems that there is no truth in the report that the Hon. Bill Bryan will summer at Flathead Lake, Montana, but a great many people think that it would be an appropriate place for him.

In her essay a Missouri high school girl said: "The biggest thing in the world is man." Good girl. Great head. We feel that you are one who will not grow up to be a suffragist.

A daily hint from Paris says: "Short dresses and nothing else, will be worn this season." Bad news for the manufacturers of linen unmentionables, hosiery and gloves.

The Hon. Ted Roosevelt says that he is standing by the President. He may be but it seems to us that his right hand which he is holding behind his back has a brick in it.

A well wisher is good, but a well doer is better.

Rural Energy.

While traveling through Alabama a young salesman was one day forced to dine at a farmhouse. Not being very well satisfied with his meal of corn bread and bacon, he asked if he might have a glass of milk.

"No," replied his host. "Ah don't reckon you'll find any milk around here since the dog died."

"Since the dog died?" echoed the stranger.

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Why," said the farmer, "who do you-all reckon's goin' to go an' fetch the cows?"—Every-body's Magazine.

Limit of Politeness.

"I have seen many signs, quinn and otherwise, in the mining districts of the west," says a Chicago engineer, "but it remained for a mining superintendent in Idaho to reach the climax of sign politeness."

"At the entrance to the mine over which he is the guiding spirit this man has caused the following to be posted: 'Please do not tumble down the shaft.'"—Exchange.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING IS THE ROAD TO ECONOMY.

Moths and Dust

Many persons suppose that the best way to keep pure and woolens free from insects is to hang them in fresh air and sunshine, but such exposure invites the moth miller to deposit her eggs in the articles.

Now that the season for heavy fabrics is over they should be well whipped with rattan sticks or any pliable beater. To keep from tearing the material it should be laid out flat on a table. A porch is a good place to do this work.

When the dust is out of articles sprinkle them with a good preventive and fold carefully and place in bags, boxes or chests that can be tightly sealed.

If this work is done thoroughly and the containers are really sealed so no opening remains there will be no necessity of examining the winter goods until cold weather. But the trouble is that the goods are not always free from moth eggs when they are put away.

Years ago camphor was thought to be the best preventive against moth and well-to-do families sent to the Indies for chests made from camphor wood. Now there are many mixtures manufactured and sold for this purpose and all are good, but their odor is invariably disagreeable. Cedar sawdust is perhaps the least unpleasant of all.

The simplest way of protecting furs and clothing against the ravages of the industrious moth is to make bags of newspaper, using several sheets of the paper and plenty of flour paste. These containers may be made long enough to accommodate full length coats placed on hangers and are as strong as the purchased containers of several thicknesses of paper are used. The odor of the printer's ink is disliked by all insects, but it does not cling to garments, as the smell of tobacco stems, mothballs, naphtha and disinfectant does.

RELIEF WORK

Impossible Says Head of American Red Cross

Washington, July 20.—Brigadier General Devol, general manager of the American Red Cross returned from the Texas border today with the announcement that attempts to relieve famine and suffering among non-combatants in Mexico were hopeless under present conditions.

For six weeks, General Devol directed relief work from Fort Sam Houston. He was thoroughly discouraged by the failure of the Mexican factional leaders to co-operate. With the official statement from Red Cross headquarters tonight merely said it had been decided "that for the present much of the relief work must be postponed," the understanding here is that the society practically will abandon its activities until the United States government has further developed its Mexican policy.

WHEN THE KIDNEYS FAIL

Maysville People Have Found That Ill Health Follows

Do you ever feel that you simply can't go any further—that you must have rest from that lame and aching back—relief from the constant, dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains? Likely your kidneys are worn and tired and need help. The kidneys work night and day, removing uric acid from the blood and other waste created by expenditure of strength and energy. Naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys and in time the strain generally tells. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to thousands of bad backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys, so users say. Let them do the same for you.

S. O. Duncan, blacksmith, Flemingsburg, Ky., says: "I had severe backaches and my kidneys were out of order, their action being irregular. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I gave them a trial and was soon convinced of their merit. They strengthened my kidneys and back."

Exhibit Car of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission

THE Tuberculosis Commission equipped a railroad coach with an exhibit regarding tuberculosis and how to prevent the spread of the disease and has sent it to many points in the state. By means of pictures, descriptions, toy houses and electric devices the whole story of the cause, cure and prevention of consumption is told in graphic form for the passerby. In a little over a year 68,000 people have been reached in all sections of the state. Especial pains have been taken to reach teachers and school children so that this message of good health may be communicated through them to as many people as possible.

Washington, July 20.—Any decision by a British court that would condemn and confiscate without payment cotton of American ownership destined to a neutral country or even to prevent consignment in Germany, Austria, or Turkey would be contested by the United States government. Cotton not having been so far declared contraband of war, the state department holds that under international law it is not subject to confiscation without compensation.

LITTLE IDEAS BRING BIG RESULTS.

Muhlenberg and the Fresh-Air Movement

The suffering among the poor in the cities by the extreme heat of the summer, as well as the excessive cold in the winter, has prompted one of the most worthy of all charities, the Fresh-Air Movement for those suffering from the former, with especial reference to children.

This movement had its origin in the United States, and with the Rev. William Muhlenberg, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, New York City. He sent poor and sick people from his parish to the country for short vacations as early as 1849. A number of churches followed his example and in 1872 a New York paper started a system of daily excursions of the same character. This example was also imitated in other parts of the country. In 1874 the first societies were organized to carry on the work.

Another one of the early actors in this movement was Rev. William Parsons. In the summer of 1877, when pastor of a small church in Sherman, Pa., Parsons went down to New York and gathered a little company of the poorest and neediest children he could find. They were taken out among the people who were waiting to receive them as their guests for a fortnight during the excessive midsummer heat. Others took the place of the first company, and this novel experiment met with gratifying success.

One of the satisfying results of this fresh-air enterprise is the readiness with which the idea has been taken up by others, till today there are vacation societies for about every class of the poor. Many of the large city churches now have a fresh-air fund provided for the indigent sick; societies and hospitals have their country summer houses and missions and cottages by the sea.

Working girls' vacation societies secure a fortnight in the country for girls of that class who need the change. Other societies provide the same boon for mothers unaccompanied by their children and the King's Daughters have open houses for a few weeks or for the season, and obtain a quota of inmates from the city.

New York City alone has now over fifteen general or non-sectarian societies, and over twenty denominational or special organizations engaged in this work. Individual churches in New York City send out each year from 100 to 600 children and mothers, and some societies as many as 1200.

In England the custom has prevailed to have the children pay from twenty to twenty-five per cent. of the cost. This leads, however, to competition among the various societies for customers—an evil which not only prevents co-operation but reduces the system to a commercial basis, and thus largely diminishes the beneficial influence of the managers.

Switzerland was the first country in Europe which took up fresh-air work. Pastor Hon. of Zurich, sent sixty-eight poor children to the mountains in 1878. The system has spread all over Germany, Hungary, France, Denmark, Italy, Belgium, Spain, Holland and Japan. Germany has probably the most complete system.

Two departures from the ordinary fresh-air work, are the caring for the poor children benefited in the summer by providing them with healthy food in winter, as well as occasional outings, and trips to places of historical interest.

France has not developed fresh-air work to the extent of other countries, although this charity is becoming more popular every year. All of the large cities have arranged schools, led by Paris, which last year had a list of close to 10,000 children.

Switzerland has many vacation colonies, usually situated in the mountains. The system of fresh-air work in Europe is conspicuous for its efficiency owing to co-operation and affiliation with the public schools. All children who need an outing are reached, and overlapping is avoided.

While we have in the United States as yet nothing comparable to these European scholars' trips in extent, yet we have the beginning in the taking of school children in the large cities of the country to historic sites, on vacation trips and parties, and in a small way, especially in Chicago, of the education of the European plan.

RUSSIAN GUNBOAT

Destroys Turk Sailing Fleet Laden With Supplies for Caucasus

Vienna, July 20.—(Via London, 9:30 p. m.)—Random, capital of the province of Radom, which lies 57 miles south of Warsaw, was captured today by the Teutonic allies, according to an official communication here this evening.

London, July 20.—A fleet of fifty-nine Turkish sailing vessels, laden with war materials for the Turkish army of the Caucasus, has been destroyed by Russian torpedo boat destroyers, according to a despatch from Sebastopol to Reuters Telegram company. The sailing vessels were on a voyage to Trebizond, a seaport of Asiatic Turkey, on the Black Sea. The crews of the Turkish ships were made prisoners by the destroyers.

London, July 20.—From the shores of the gulf of Riga in the north to that part of southern Poland, back into which they drove the Russians from Galicia, the Austro-German armies are still surging forward and if Warsaw can be denied them it will be almost a miracle. This seems to be the consensus of opinion even among those in England who heretofore have been hopeful that the Russians would turn and deliver a counter blow, and news of the evacuation of the Polish capital followed by the triumphant entry of the Germans amid such scenes as were enacted at Przemyśl and Lemberg would come as no surprise.

The German official statement, beginning its recital at the northern tip of the eastern battle line, records the progress of the German troops within about fifty miles of Riga; then, following the great battle arch southward, chronicles further successes in the section northeast of Warsaw, culminating in the capture of Ostrolenka, one of the fortresses designed to shield the capital.

The acute peril to Warsaw is accentuated by the Russian official communication, which says that German columns are within artillery range of the fortress of Nowo Georgievsk, the key to the capital from the northwest and only about 20 miles from it.

Immediately southwest of the city and less than 20 miles from it Bionle has fallen, and further south, Grojec; while German cavalry are astride the important railway from Radom to Ivangorod. The Lublin Cholim Railway is still in the hands of the Russians so far as is known, but the town of Lublin has either been captured or in danger of falling into the grip of the Austro-Germans, the Russian commander-in-chief having issued, through the Civil Governor, an order that in case of a retreat the male population is to attach itself to the retreating troops.

There has been a flash of British activity in Flanders, without any appreciable change in the situation, and the British public is far more interested in the South Wales coal strike, which, by virtue of David Lloyd's flying visit to Cardiff, seems to have been settled. It is understood that virtually all of the strikers' demands have been granted. The Serbian armies are being re-equipped and reorganized, according to a semi-official advice reaching London, and will soon be in a position to resume the offensive.

H. G. GARRETT FOR RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

Winchester, Ky., July 17, 1915.
Public Ledger,
Maysville, Ky.

Dear Sir:

I am writing you in behalf of Hon. H. G. Garrett, of Clark County, Ky., who is a candidate to succeed himself as Railroad Commissioner from the Third Railroad Commission District.

Mr. Garrett is now serving his first term and it has been the universal custom, since Railroad Commissioners have been elected by the people to accord to every Commissioner from the Third District a second term without opposition. Although this has been the unbroken custom, a young man from Floyd County has announced as a candidate in opposition to Mr. Garrett. This young gentleman has only been a resident of the State for a short time, and has stated openly that he does not expect to win.

In view of the splendid record that Mr. Garrett has made during his incumbency in office, it is the desire of his friends that he be given an overwhelming majority. As a member of the State Central Committee he has been tireless in his efforts to reconcile the differences that split the party in 1912, and to him, more than any other man I know, is credit due for the almost perfect harmony that now exists throughout the State in the Republican Party. No man in Kentucky has given more of his services and means to promote Republican principles than he; and this, in view of his enviable record as Railroad Commissioner, is a just reason why he should be given a splendid majority in the Primary of August 7th, 1915. Therefore, I appeal to you to use your influence and call to your aid all of your friends to give Mr. Garrett the support he so richly deserves.

Assuring you of his deep appreciation for your support, and of my pride in his behalf, I am,

Sincerely yours,
JOHN G. WHITE, Chairman

To The Voters of Eastern Kentucky

Having known Hon. H. G. Garrett, personally and well for the last 15 years, I wish to say in the interest of his coming race, that our mountain people have all the sympathy which his great, loyal heart is able to give. This has been shown through all the years by his liberal gifts and noble aid to schools and churches. In his devotion to the interests of the mountaineers, he is peerless; and I am voluntarily writing this to ask all the men, who love our Mountain Homes, to vote for him, regardless of politics. I am not a Republican, but I shall rejoice to see Mr. Garrett win his race, not only because he is highly qualified to fill the position, but because he has helped our struggling institutions and churches so much.

Respectfully,
J. A. BURNS, President,
Onelda Baptist Institute.

Winchester, Ky., July 15, 1915.
To the Republicans of the Third Railroad Commission District:

I again ask my friends to give me their support for the nomination for Railroad Commissioner. I am the only Commissioner who has had opposition for the second term since it has been a Commission. I feel that I will be more competent to serve the people the next four years on account of the experience of this four years. I have used my best efforts to serve the people; have attended every meeting of the Commission and answered every letter in regard to complaints and inquiries in the district. On account of the great development in the State the present Commission has tried more cases and handled more business than all our predecessors. In order to do this I have kept a special stenographer at my own expense. This district is composed of forty-nine counties, nearly one-half of the State, in which there are about 100,000 Republican and 80,000 Democratic voters, which makes a large constituency to serve. Practically all the development by the railroad in the State is being done in this district; therefore there is a great deal more business in the Third District than all the balance of the State. I have never allowed my personal business to interfere with my official duties, nor will I permit it to do so if I again represent you. As we have many candidates and a long ballot, it is going to take an effort on the part of my friends to see that the voters do not forget to vote for me. There is also a danger of my candidacy being overshadowed in many places by red-hot local races. I most urgently request that you do not forget me on the day of the primary. I wish to express my gratitude and appreciation of your loyal support in the past, and trust that it will be none the less for my re-nomination.

Faithfully yours,
H. G. GARRETT

PRESIDENT AND CABINET AGREE ON NEW REPLY

Secretary Lansing Hasty Formulating Ideas Decided Upon—Strident Secrecy Is Commanded

Washington, July 20.—President Wilson and his cabinet decided today on the general principles of the note to be sent to Germany within a few days renewing the efforts to secure for American citizens protection in their rights on the high seas. The president read to his official family assembled for the first time in a month, the draft of a communication answering the German government's note of July 8, which failed to grant the demands of the United States growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania. The draft was incomplete in form. On its character and purposes, however, there was unanimous agreement, and Secretary Lansing was at work tonight putting in more precise language the ideas set forth.

Members of the cabinet generally preserved secrecy regarding the probable contents of the communication and the president cautioned against detailed speculation in advance of the publication of the document, lest mistaken impressions be carried abroad before the actual text is received in Berlin. Such information as was obtainable concerning the nature of the new note was chiefly of a negative character. Cabinet officers made it clear that it would not be an ultimatum or make any threats as to the future purposes of the United States. At the same time they pointed out that it would probably have an air of finality, curtailing the field of discussion and negotiation and placing squarely on Germany the responsibility for any actions that might subsequently endanger the friendly relations of the two countries. The communication will be couched in friendly terms although it will follow the spirit of firmness that has characterized previous notes.

Today's conference was devoted to an extent to a discussion of what the American people really wanted the Washington government to say and do in the present crisis. So far as the cabinet officers could judge by their examination of public expressions, the nation had voiced an insistent desire that the honor and dignity of the United States be followed which would Too Nervous To Drive a Car?

That's too bad, old man, but you know nervousness is largely due to wrong habits of eating and drinking. If you would quit coffee and use Postum your nerves would steady up.

Postum tastes much like fine, mild Java but there's no drug in it—that's where it's got coffee beat a mile.

Sound advice.

More and more, people are waking up to the harmful effects of caffeine—the drug in coffee—a frequent cause of nervousness, heart flutter, dizziness, headache and other ailments.

Instant Postum

is the soluble form of the original Postum Cereal. A level teaspoonful of the crystalline powder in a cup of hot water makes a delicious food-drink instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance, but some prefer the original Postum-Cereal which must be thoroughly boiled—15c and 25c packages. Grocers sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

A change from coffee to Postum has been a good thing for thousands.

WIDESPREAD STARVATION IN MEXICO

Washington, July 21.—Official reports given out at the war department indicating widespread starvation in Mexico; the apparent failure of the Carranza government to sustain itself in Mexico City; and the re-occupation of the national capital by the Zapatistas gave rise to the view again today in official circles that President Wilson before long will make public a new plan for the pacification of the republic.

THOUGHT LEWIS MIGHT BE "HIGH YALLER"

Chief of Police McCarthy, and Night Patrolman Flowers, of Portsmouth, were here Wednesday, examining the body of a negro who died from the result of a wound obtained in a pistol fight with Officer Bloemhuff of the local police. The dead negro, Lewis, they thought might be "High Yaller," the slayer of Detective Baucus, who on December 6, 1914, was shot and killed in the N. & W. R. R. yards at Portsmouth. Lewis looks very nearly like "High Yaller," being but a half inch shorter and having the same scars, but not as large as the slayer of Baucus. He also has gold teeth, as had the hunted negro, and is built very much the same. The Portsmouth police left for their home last evening of the opinion that the dead negro is "High Yaller."

The World's Lowest Priced Knight Motored Car

THIS announces the greatest achievement in the history of the automobile business.

The Knight is the automobile motor that revolutionized the entire motor car industry of Europe.

The Daimler of England, the Panhard of France, the Mercedes of Germany, the Minerva of Belgium—in fact practically all of the costly European cars—are equipped with the famous Knight type motor.

And these are the motor cars that cost from $4,000 to $8,000 each!

Practically every royal and titled family in Europe owns one or more Knight motored cars.

The Knight type motor is the nearest approach to 100% efficiency.

This motor differs from other motors in that where all others deteriorate with use, this improves; to all others carbon is harmful, here it is beneficial; size for size it has more power.

It has no noisy poppet valves; no noisy cams; no uncertain valve springs; no troublesome valves to grind; practically no wearing parts.

Specifications:

60-horsepower Knight motor; cylinders cast on block, 4 1/2" x 4 1/2"; high tension magneto ignition

114-inch wheelbase; full-flying rear axle; underbody rear axle; 24" x 4" tires, available rear

Displacement, 100; cast valve; Caster, Royal with heavy spring; gray wheels; nickel and polished aluminum trimmings

Vacuum tank gasoline system; Electric starting and lighting system; Central battery on steering column; Roadlight dimmers
